Banking model of education - Wikipedia

Banking model of education (Portuguese: modelo bancário de educação) is a term used by Paulo Freire to describe and critique the traditional education system. The name refers to the method of students as containers into which educators put knowledge. Freire argued that this model redefines a lack of critical thinking and knowledge ownership in students, which in turn...

Student-centered learning - Wikipedia

Student-centered learning, also known as learner-centered education, broadly encompasses methods of teaching that shift the focus of instruction from the teacher to the student. In original usage, student-centered learning aims to develop learner autonomy and independence by putting responsibility for the learning path in the hands of students by imparting to them, and the...

FIVE EDUCATIONAL PHILOSOPHIES Introduction

Rather than “teaching as banking,” in which the educator deposits information into students’ heads, Freire saw teaching and learning as a process of inquiry in which the child must invent and reinvent the world. For social reconstructionists and critical theorists, curriculum focuses on student experience and taking social action on real problems, such as violence, hunger, international...

Self-Directed Learning (SDL): A Brief Comprehensive

Another helpful self-directed learning instructional model is that proposed by Gagné (1991, 1994), designated as Staged Self-Directed Learning (SSDL) model, which outlines how teachers can promote self-directed learning in their students (Merriam et al, 2007).

Culturally Responsive Teaching and The Brain: Promoting

When the teacher really gets tuned into a student’s culture and ethnic identity as described in Culturally Responsive Teaching and the Brain, the teacher forms a partnership with the student that does more than just jack them up; it actually facilitates the growth of the student’s neuroplasticity (brain cell connections).

Introduction to Curriculum Development in Nursing

Freire (1975/2019) views education as a process of conscientization, the development of critical awareness of one’s social reality through reflection and action, and curriculum as the & Lyter, 2003), often extending to include matters of race, culture, and sexuality.
